Vietnam Memorial Moving Wall program

By LIZZY HILL
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — For the first time since 2008, the Moving Wall Vietnam Veterans Memorial has been erected on the Wilmington Town Common. The wall arrived earlier this morning and will remain until 12 p.m. on July 30. The memorial event, organized by Veterans' Services Director Lou Cimaglia, is free of charge and staffed 24/7 for visitors.

The Moving Wall contains every single name of the over 58,000 servicemen killed or declared dead in the Vietnam War. It is a half-size replica of the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington, D.C. It's been almost 10 years since the wall was last in Wilmington, from Sept. 18-22 of 2008, which is part of what made Wilmington Veterans' Services want to bring it back.

This year's Moving Wall will be met with a ceremony every night. Tonight is the "Opening Ceremony," which honors the four gentlemen from Wilmington whose names are on the wall: John Joseph Fullerton Jr., Robert Warren Parent, Richard William Welch, and John Allan Rich. WHS' Ryann Walsh will sing the national anthem, and several Wilmington officials including Jeff Hull and Kevin Caira will be featured.

Friday night, Wilmington invites the surrounding communities to celebrate their names on the wall. Saturday night is "Public Safety Night"; and Sunday night is a "Welcome Home" ceremony with Scruffy Wallace on the bagpipes. Besides the number of veterans who will be present each night for different reasons, Cimaglia also included that Red Cross and the Lowell Veterans Center will both have a presence at the memorial in support.

The Wall is staffed 24/7 with volunteers to help visitors to find names and complete rubbings, which involve placing a piece of paper on a name and running a crayon over it. They ask that visitors refrain from using or bringing food, beverages, pets, and cell phones or other electric devices while in the wall area.

Cimaglia explained that it's been in the plans for the Moving Wall to return to Wilmington in honor of the 10th anniversary of its first visit.

"We just felt that it was such a powerful experience the first time," he said.

National Grid lockout affects Wilmington workers

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Gas-line employees affected by a National Grid lockout have appealed to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen for support.

USW Local 12012 President John Buonopane spoke at the July 9 board meeting to voice the concerns of union gas-line employees. According to Buonopane, National Grid locked out 1,200 employees on June 25.

"It wasn't a strike, it was a lockout," said Buonopane, and added that the union had offered twice to extend a collective bargaining agreement, to no avail.

Buonopane went on to say that union employees typically respond to a wide variety of gas-line issues, including potentially dangerous gas leaks, but that since the lockout, National Grid has instead been sending "inexperienced and recently trained" workers on calls. He characterized this as a public safety concern, in addition to the issues it raises pertaining to workers' rights.

"Basically, what we're concerned about, is the company continuing to perform new, replacement gas maintenance service work while

Wilmington sings new song with community chorus

WILMINGTON — The Wilmington Community Chorus will hold it's first gathering and informal rehearsal on Thursday, Aug. 2 from 7 - 9 p.m. at The Dance Company, located at 909 Main St. in Wilmington.

The chorus is open to adult residents of Wilmington and surrounding communities that are looking for an opportunity to be part of a contemporary singing and performing experience. There are no auditions required and all voice parts are welcome.

The Wilmington Community Chorus will be directed by Taunia Soderquist, an alumnus of the Wilmington High School music program. Soderquist is also the Director of Music at The Academy at Penguin Hall in Wenham where she teaches all of the music curriculum as well as the music performance ensembles.

"I'm excited to be directing a mixed contemporary chorus in Wilmington. I love the idea of our community having a group that is open and inclusive of all singers, with a diverse repertoire of music to showcase the many wonderful singers that I know we have in this community. After living and performing in Southern California for the past several years, I have returned back home to the Wilmington area. I realized that so many of my former students, friends, and community members were really seeking a group like this in the Wilmington area that they could be part of. Many people step away from music because of the demands of work and family life, and I wanted to provide a low-pressure, but high-energy ensemble that would make everyone feel welcome, energized, and enthusiastic about singing."

The first rehearsal will be more of a welcome and group discussion with one song rehearsed, and the first full rehearsal will start on Aug. 9. More information (including music for the first rehearsal) can be found on the website at www.wilmingtonsings.com or by emailing wilmingtoncommunitychorus@gmail.com.

It's Your Money

by Todd Brisbois

A LOWER DOLLAR LIMIT ON MORTGAGES QUALIFYING FOR THE HOME MORTGAGE INTEREST DEDUCTION

For anyone considering taking out a mortgage, the new law imposes a lower dollar limit on mortgages qualifying for the home mortgage interest deduction. Beginning in 2018, taxpayers may only deduct interest on $750,000 of qualified residence loans. The limit is $375,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return. These are down from the prior limits of $1 million, or $500,000 for a married taxpayer filing a separate return. The limits apply to the combined amount of loans used to buy, build or substantially improve the taxpayer's main home and second home.

Example: In January 2018, a taxpayer takes out a $500,000 mortgage to purchase a main home with a fair market value of $800,000. In February 2018, the taxpayer takes out a $250,000 home equity loan to put an addition on the main home. Both loans are secured by the main home and the total does not exceed the cost of the home. Because the total amount of both loans does not exceed $750,000, all of the interest paid on the loans is deductible. However, if the taxpayer used the home equity loan proceeds for personal expenses, such as paying off student loans and credit cards, then the interest on the home equity loan would not be deductible.

David Robertson

State Rep candidate hosts successful campaign rally

TEWKSBURY — With a parking lot literally filled to the brim, David Robertson and his campaign committee were proud to have hosted a campaign rally at Wamesit Lanes. With over 125 in attendance at the peak of the event, many gathered to hear and listen to local leader support of the candidate, as well as his vision for the future of the 19th Middlesex District.

"I think having such an event at Wamesit Lanes was fitting," said Robertson. "It's an embodiment of what's to come. Smart, high quality development is on its way to both Tewksbury and Wilmington, and the next decade is of critical importance to both towns, as we move forward. We have to tackle Route 38's ever-increasing grid-lock, fill our vacant store fronts, and make sure we aren't pricing our elderly and young folk out of town with our housing costs. I look forward to continue working on such issues as State Representative, and continuing to serve my friends and neighbors."

The night included a number of remarks from supporter including JoMarie O'Mahony of Wilmington and long-time Tewksbury teacher Mrs. Eldringhoff, better known to 20 years of students as "Mrs. E."

Both praised Robertson's dedication to the district as legislative aide to Representative James Miceli as well as being widely accessible to constituents facing any sort of issue.

Other delegates included long-serving Tewksbury Selectman David Gay, Tewksbury School Board members Krissy Polimeno and Arthy Bennet, former Planning Board member Nancy Steen, Wilmington School Board member MJ Byrnes, and Wilmington Housing Board member Stacie Murphy.

"I was very happy and enthused to see so many of our supporters show, and this is only a fraction of our volunteers, supporters, and friends of the campaign," said campaign manager Gary DePalma. "Over the next weeks you'll see all of these folks out here tonight, spreading our message that Dave is already experienced, ready, and dedicated. He won't have a lag curve like the other candidates would, and he already knows the importance of constituent services. He has the ideas, and he has the knowledge. Nobody else can claim that."

History:

Long after Prohibition, Tewksbury still had stills

By LARZ F. NEILSON

While the phrase "drinks like a fish" is used to describe someone with an alcohol problem, Tewksbury had a slightly different problem, some 82 years ago. Inebriated fish.

Police Chief Cyril Barker called in federal liquor agents after discovering fish behaving strangely in a pond off Shawsheen Street. The report in the Boston Globe said the fish were playing leap-frog and performing other strange antics.

Seven federal agents investigated. They found a familiar odor near the pond. It turned out that the pond was a dumping ground for mash, a byproduct from the distillation of liquor. The agents traced the pipes in the pond back to a barn. In the barn, they found George Kaulin operating two large stills. There were electric pumps, 50 vats, sugar and other ingredients used for making liquor.

Until 1934, liquor was completely illegal. However, after Prohibition ended, a license was required to operate a still, with a hefty tax.

Several cars had been seen nearby, some with connection to a ring out of Lawrence which was allegedly flooding the area with liquor. Kaulin was arraigned before the United States Commissioner in Lowell. He was held on a $2,000 bond for a hearing two weeks later.

A quarter-century later, in March 1959, bootleggers were still at it. Five federal agents, along with a state police captain, a lieutenant and Tewksbury Police Chief John Sullivan, raided a building off Shawsheen Street near the airport.

The site of the raid was a two-story ramshackle chicken house about 100 yards from Route 38. It contained a large boiler. On the second floor were about 20 vats. Alongside the building there were two cookers, one of 600-gallon capacity, and the other of 275-gallon capacity. Police found 1,000 gallons of finished alcohol and 10,000 gallons of mash undergoing fermentation. There were supplies of alcohol at 185 proof, plus sugar and yeast.

It was estimated that thhe operation had been grossing $800 profit per week.

Officers arrested John Forte of Somerville and Sal Mandracca of Everett. They were charged with illegal operation of a still and evasion of federal taxes on alcohol.

Letters to the editor

Vote person, not party

To the editor,

Once in a while one of my conservative friends will try to get me to join the Republican party, but ever since I was 18 years old, I have always stayed unenrolled. The biggest reason is because I like to vote based on the person, not the party.

As an unenrolled voter, come this Sept. 4 I will be requesting a ballot to vote in the Democratic Primary, specifically so I can vote for Judy O'Connell.

I have known and worked with Judy for many years, as a resident, a town official, and an advocate for veterans. She is exactly the kind of person that I want to represent me at the State House. She is smart, sincere and honest. She is feisty when she needs to be, but she never takes a gratuitous shot at anyone.

I don't know anyone that works harder than she does, and I know from experience she will be a tireless worker for the residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury. To me, these qualities are the most important ones for a public official to have, and I ask my fellow unenrolled and "independent" voters to join me in casting a vote for Judy O'Connell.

Sincerely,
Louis Cimaglia IV

Grateful for work of ICE

To the editor,

It was disheartening to read comments from Democratic State Rep. candidate David Robertson, calling members of our law enforcement "disgraceful." It was a word he used to describe ICE in a recent Q&A that appeared in the Wilmington Apple on July 4.

Mr. Roberston went on to add that ICE "is concentrating too much on who is here already."

In a recent report, from March through May of this year, ICE identified 456 illegal immigrants that warranted immediate removal in Massachusetts. These individuals had been arrested for rape, assault, domestic violence, possession of firearms, drug trafficking and DUI. Just recently in June, Tewksbury Police arrested an illegal immigrant for trafficking heroin. ICE issued a detainer for her. Count me as someone who is grateful for their work.

Sincerely,
Bill Reilly
Tewksbury

O'Connell has commitment to listening

To the editor,

Recently, I was listening to a sports radio talk show, and the station was interviewing a college football coach. When asked what he liked best about his team, he responded, "My guys aren't just interested in listening. They are committed to listening."

I found that to be an interesting distinction, and as I think about it, that's one of the many things that I admire about Judy O'Connell. She is committed to listening first, thinking second, and speaking third, and we sure could use more people like that in public office.

In political campaigns, we often talk about how passionately someone will fight for constituents. That certainly is an important part of any elected position, and having worked closely with Judy, I have come to know her as a passionate and principled advocate, who has always been ready, willing and able to tackle a variety of constituent concerns.

From advocating for specific roadway improvements, to addressing speeding and safety concerns, or from helping an individual student navigate educational alternatives, to explaining the tax abatement process, Judy has always been there for anyone that asks her for help.

What distinguishes Judy from many other public officials, however, is her commitment to listening. This enables her to size up a problem and formulate a plan of action which is not only responsive, but which actually accomplishes something. This commitment was on full display when she served as the Chairperson of the Yentile Farm Committee, balancing a variety of needs, interests and opinions and successfully leading the committee and the town in a collective effort to bring one of our most successful capital improvement projects to fruition, on time and on budget.

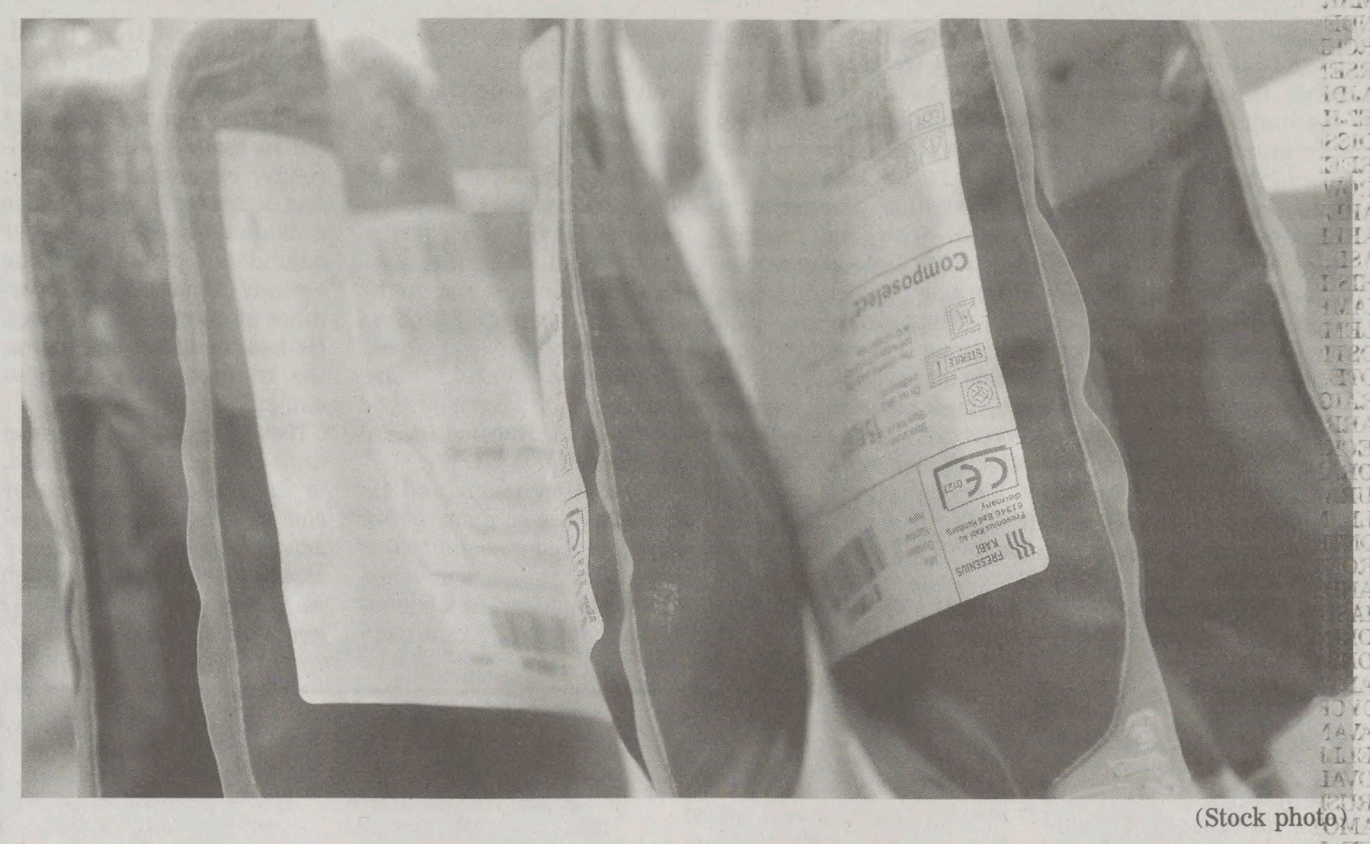

On Sept. 4, please join me in voting for a person that knows that listening is more than simply waiting for her turn to speak. Please join me in voting for Judy O'Connell.

Michael Newhouse

Red Cross blood shortage continues

DEDHAM — Thousands of people have responded to the emergency call for blood and platelet donations issued by the American Red Cross in early July. Still, there continues to be an emergency need for donors of all blood types, especially type O, to give now to address a severe blood shortage.

Red Cross blood donations are being distributed to hospitals faster than they are coming in, and right now there is less than a five-day blood supply on hand. The Red Cross strives to keep a five-day supply of blood to meet the needs of patients and to be prepared for emergencies that require significant volumes of donated blood products.

"Patients don't get a summer break from the need for lifesaving treatments, so it is critical that hospitals have access to blood products each and every day," said Kelly Isenor, External Communications Manager of the Massachusetts Blood Services Region. "We sincerely appreciate those who have responded to the call to help save lives, but the emergency need remains. Those who haven't rolled up a sleeve to give are urged to do so today."

There is a particular need for type O blood, which plays an important role in ongoing patient care and emergencies. Type O positive is the most transfused blood type and can be given to patients with any Rh-positive blood type. Type O negative is the universal blood type and can be given to any patient. It's what emergency room personnel reach for when there is no time to determine the blood type of patients in the most serious situations.

In thanks, all those who come to donate blood or platelets July 30 through Aug. 30, 2018, will receive a $5 Amazon.com Gift Card via email. (Restrictions apply; see amazon.com/gc-legal. More information and details are available at RedCrossBlood.org/Together.)

Donors of all blood types are urged to make an appointment to give now using the free American Red Cross Blood Donor App, by visiting RedCrossBlood.org or by calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

How to donate blood

Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in.

Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their predonation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

About the American Red Cross

Robertson has qualities to fill vacant house seat

To the editor,

David Robertson, this is a name I would like you to remember. David Robertson is a candidate to fill the seat held by State Representative James Miceli for 40 years. The names Robertson and Miceli belong in the same sentence because for the past 10 years they worked together, side by side, as the team that brought dependable, caring public service to the citizens of Tewksbury and Wilmington.

During that decade of work in the State Representative's office, David Robertson has developed the necessary qualities to begin service to this district on Day 1:

- David's dedication to his constituents is unmatched.
- David's knowledge of local issues is unparalleled.
- David's command of the protocol and procedures of the State House is unrivaled.

There could not be a better training ground for excellence in public service than standing at the side of James R. Miceli. In addition, Mr. Miceli understood the intelligence, compassion and commitment that David Robertson brought to work every day, and he valued this young man of exemplary character.

On Sept. 4, in the Primary Election, I ask you to consider David Robertson as your candidate for State Representative. He stands prepared and ready to serve.

Mary Eldringhoff

OBITUARY

Peter J. Michals III

Enlisted in U.S. Air Force

Peter J. Michals III of Tewksbury passed away peacefully after a brief illness on July 19. He was 80 years old.

He was born and grew up in East Cambridge, graduated from Rindge Technical School and Cambridge High and Latin.

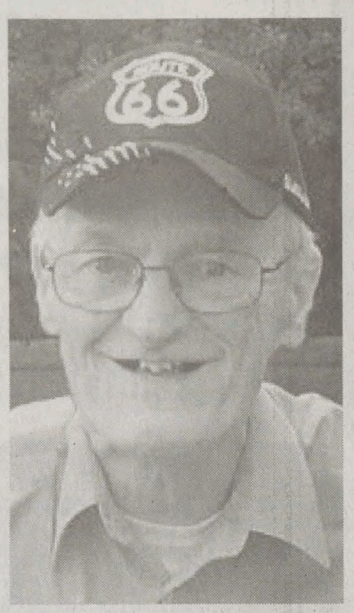

An altar boy in his youth, Peter was a devout Catholic all of his life, and attended Mass each week as a parishioner at St. Williams Church. At age 19, he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and served from 1957 to 1960. He was a member of the Air Police and was stationed in Germany and France. He often recalled his service and the traveling he did with the Air Force as among his fondest memories.

When he returned from service abroad, he married his sweetheart, Camille Samaria (Michals), who waited for him. Together, they had three children.

Peter attended and held degrees from Boston University, Lowell Tech, and Lowell State University, now UMass Lowell. He was a caring family man who worked as an accountant and had a small tax preparation business until his retirement a few years ago. He loved his family, enjoyed playing sports with his son, and spent 15 years as a volunteer coach for Tewksbury Little League baseball. He was also a member of the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks.

He is survived by his beloved wife of 57 years, Camille; daughter Debra Michals and son-in-law Mark Antinoro of Newburyport; son Peter and daughter-in-law Kelly Curley of Contoocook, NH; grandson Cori Michals and granddaughter Ashley Michals of New Hampshire; step-grandchildren Sarah Antinoro and Melanie Antinoro of Acton, MA, and Casey Curley of Pensacola, FL.; his sister Janet Tosto of Tewksbury; and many nieces and nephews. His was predeceased by a daughter, Camille Marie "Camie."

Memorial Visiting hours were on Wednesday, July 25, from 9 to 11 a.m. at Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of 1 Dewey and 975 Main Sts. (Rt. 38) TEWKSBURY CENTER, followed by a Memorial Funeral Mass at 11:30 a.m. in St. Williams Church, 1351 Main St. (Rte. 38) Tewksbury. Burial will follow at St. Mary Cemetery, No. Tewksbury.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in his name to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, P.O. Box 1000, Dept. 142, Memphis, TN 38148-0142 or visit www.stjude.org. Peter's family would like to extend their gratitude to the caring staff of Woodbriar Health Center in Wilmington. Visit: tewksburyfuneralhome.com.

A PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(never known to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity (Make requests). There are none that can withstand your power.

O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish. God Bless

Prinzivalli named featured candidate at GOP rally

TEWKSBURY — Pina Prinzivalli (R-Tewksbury), candidate for State Representative in the 19th Middlesex District, has announced she's been named a featured candidate at a GOP Meet and Rally on Aug. 1 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in Lowell. The event is being held at Athenian Corner and is being hosted by United States Veteran and 1st Middlesex State Senate candidate John MacDonald.

"I'm a big supporter of Pina and I'm excited to have her be a part of this event because she's running for all of the right reasons," said MacDonald, a veteran of the U.S. Air Force who served in the Persian Gulf War. "Pina and I jumped into our respective races early on to challenge two long time incumbents. Now both of our races are for open seats. Pina had the courage to run when no one else was willing to do so. She will bring that same courage to Beacon Hill where she will be a bold voice and a fearless advocate for the taxpayers. Pina is truly running to put the taxpayers first."

The event will feature other area and statewide Republican candidates including Geoff Diehl for U.S. Senate, Rick Green for Congress (District 3), Jay McMahon for Attorney General, Anthony Amore for Secretary of State, Joe Espinola for State Senate (2nd Middlesex & Essex), Kathy Lynch for State Rep (2nd Middlesex) and Rich Baker for Governor's Council (5th District).

"I can't thank John enough, first for his service to our country and second for the support he has shown me," said Prinzivalli, who announced her candidacy last October. "John has done so much great work for our veterans with 'Veterans Assisting Veterans.' I can't wait to work with him on Beacon Hill on the issues that matter most to the people of the Commonwealth. It's going to be a great night with great Republican candidates who are committed to bringing balance to Massachusetts."

The Aug. 1 event is free, donations to the candidates are welcome. Athenian Corner is located at 207 Market St. MacDonald says the event will allow people in the area to meet great candidates all in one place that are standing up against politics as usual.

"These are the candidates I personally endorse," said MacDonald. "They are offering the people a true and positive choice in the upcoming election and Pina has clearly shown herself to be just that."

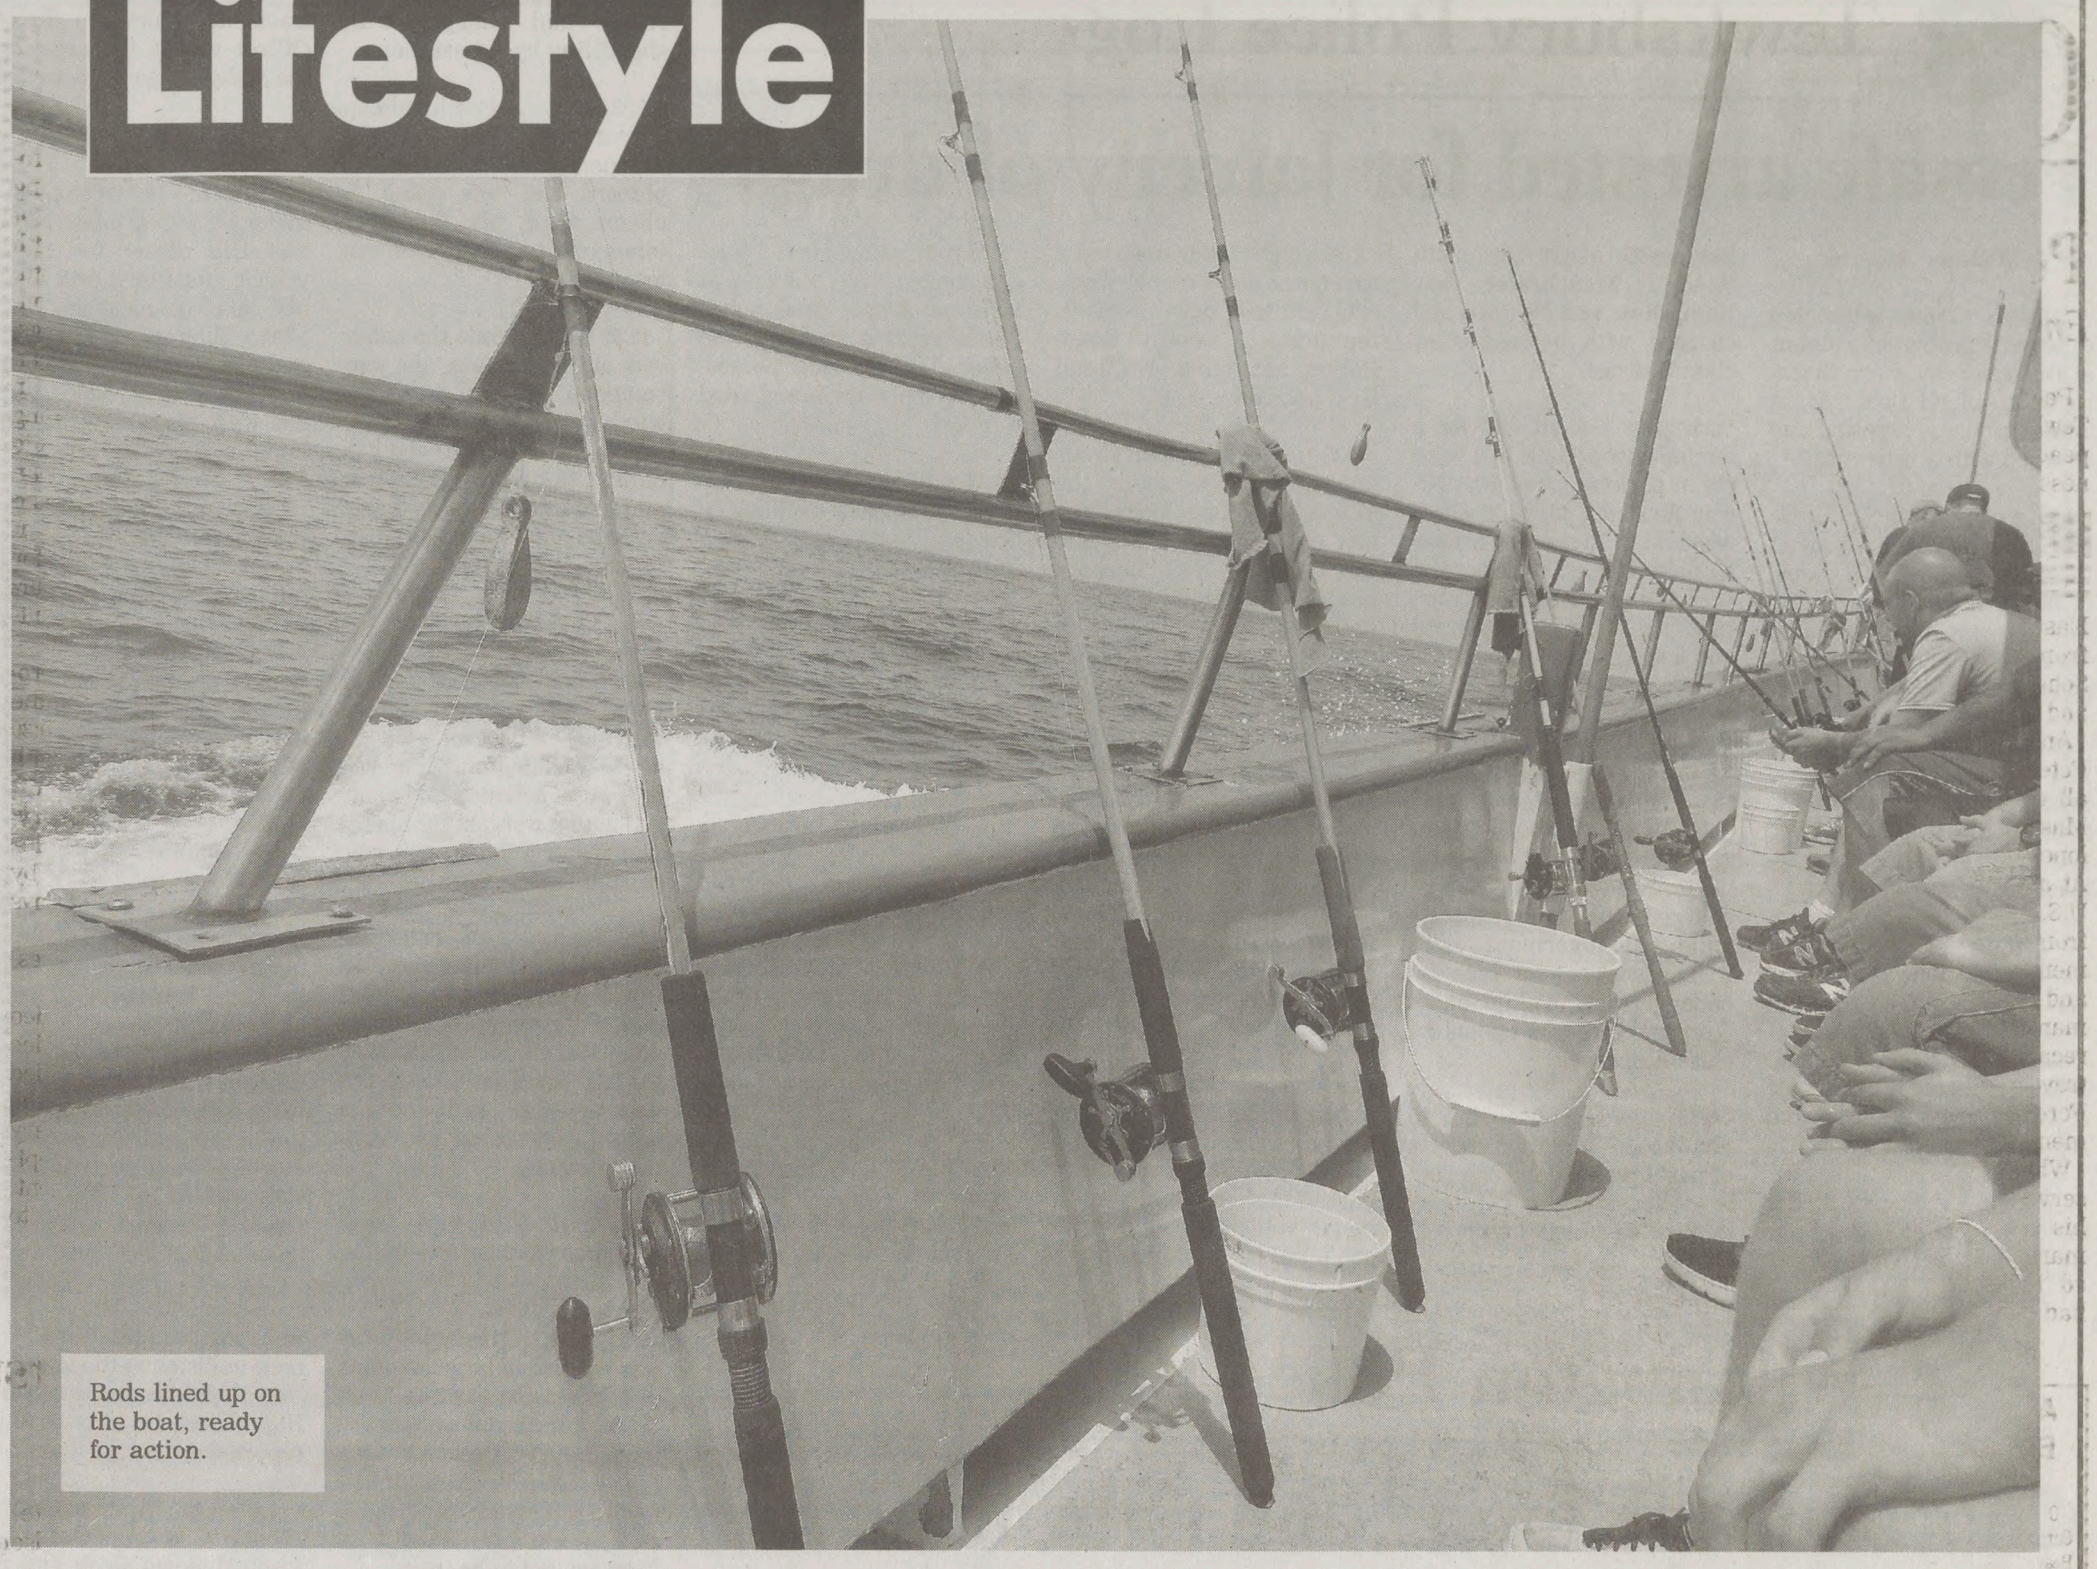

Since announcing her candidacy last fall, Prinzivalli has been the only candidate in the 19th Middlesex working to lower the tax burden by collecting over 800 signatures for a ballot question to reduce the sales tax. Prinzivalli is also the only candidate who has signed the "Taxpayers Protection Pledge" and has been steadfast in her opposition and commitment to saying "NO" to Massachusetts becoming a Sanctuary State for illegal immigrants.

"I'm not a career politician, nor am I running to become one," said Prinzivalli. "I'm a career professional, a hardworking taxpayer just like you. It's time for Tewksbury and Wilmington to have a bold Republican voice that isn't going to be afraid to stand up against the status quo and put the taxpayers first."

Prinzivalli has been endorsed by the Tewksbury Republican Town Committee, Representative Geoff Diehl, Representative Shaunna O'Connell, and Republican State Committeewoman Ruth Chou.

The Republican primary will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 4. The general election will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Rods lined up on the boat, ready for action.

Try deep sea fishing

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent
paige@yourtowncrier.com

Fishing is a quintessential summer pastime. In New England, we are fortunate to have access to both freshwater ponds and lakes, and the great Atlantic Ocean. Recently, the opportunity to go on a deep sea fishing charter provided a chance to experience something well beyond the small bobber and reel encounters we have enjoyed with the kids up to now.

A local rec department offered a one-day excursion out of Hampton, New Hampshire. The riches of the Isle of Shoals and Jeffrey's Ledge are well known to sport fisherman in the area, and the cold, clear Atlantic waters are teeming with all types of sea life, some hopefully destined for our plates. Several companies operate out of the area.

The boat left early in the morning from a pier in North Hampton. Fisherpeople lined up to jockey for position on the vessel, many trying for the coveted back of the boat. Space on these charters is such that folks are pretty close to each other — men, women and children of all ages — each hoping to come home with some fresh haddock, cusk, rockfish or other fine eating fish.

Though some caught dogfish, a member of the shark family, those get thrown back. There are size limits for what can be kept and what must be thrown back by species. A charter is a fine way to experience deep sea fishing without the cost of your own boat, fuel, upkeep, license, etc. Rental rods were available, though our group's were included, and the mates took charge of putting chopped fish or clams out for use as bait.

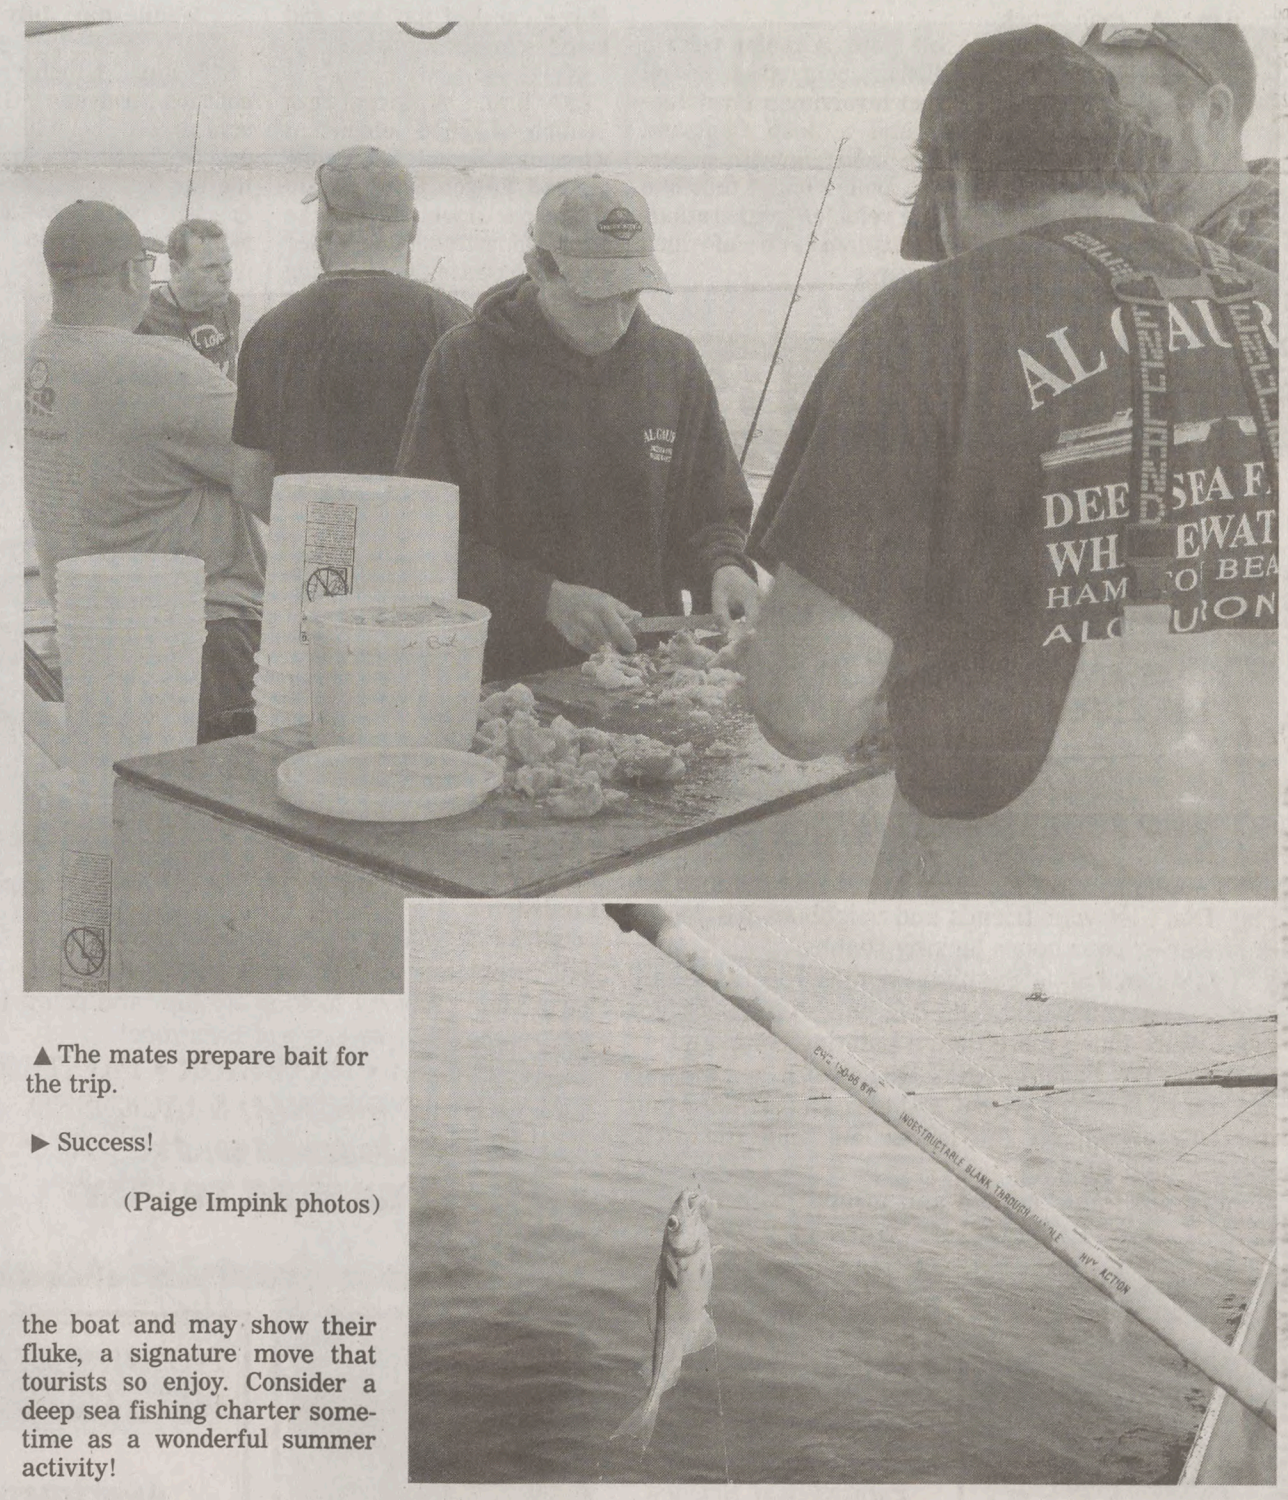

Mates were willing to help with any aspect of your adventure, from baiting your hook if you wanted to helping you get the fish off the hook, and everything in between.

The trip was approximately nine hours in duration — a full day. It takes about an hour or so to get out to the fishing waters. As soon as the boat stops, all lines drop in. Once the weights hit the bottom, the rods are jigged, or occasionally moved up and down, to try and catch the attention of a fish.

The captain's knowledge of the area is evident and once the action in an area "dries up," the boat is moved to another spot. This happened multiple times. Occasionally, the mates would have to untangle the lines of the guests as they can get snagged under the boat, but this seems to be just taken in stride.

As fish are caught, the mates are available to fillet the fish to bring home. The suggested tip is $1 per fish. Our group was excited to have about five pounds of fish, which we enjoyed the next night. This is an option as you may certainly bring your fish home to fillet. Fresh fish is incredible, with no detectable fish smell and firm, white flesh.

A side benefit of the fishing trip is the whales and dolphins that are also often spotted. The dolphins run right along the boat, riding the wake. Whales will often come quite near to the boat and may show their fluke, a signature move that tourists so enjoy. Consider a deep sea fishing charter sometime as a wonderful summer activity!

Vietnam Moving Wall program kicks off tonight with 'opening ceremonies'

brate and remember the servicemen and women who lost their lives in the Vietnam War.

He described that the name gives the memorial a double meaning.

"It's a very appropriate name," Cimaglia shared. "It moves from state to state... it's also a very moving experience, not just to the general public but also to the men who've served over there. It gives them and their loved ones an opportunity to come and reflect and see the wall and know that they're not forgotten."

He is proud that Wilmington is able to create a tradition by honoring everyone who served in Vietnam for the next five days.

Since scheduling the wall's arrival, Cimaglia has made it a priority to bring the event together in an impactful way.

"We've had great support getting the wall funded to be here," he continued. "It takes a village, as they say."

He mentioned the help of Wilmington's DPW and Police Departments especially.

The press release from Veterans' Services also reads, "A special thank you to all the dedicated volunteers and committee members who helped to make this display a memorable, respectful, and honorable tribute to those whose names are displayed on the wall and to all who paid the ultimate sacrifice."

He also got to set up the flowers and benches around the memorial.

Wilmington Minutemen James Hembree and Captain Michael Kelley are participating in this summer's Lunch and Games program at the Town Museum! They will be bringing their own colonial-themed games and activities, available in addition to the Museum's own activities. Join us on Fridays from noon to 2 p.m. on the grounds of the Town Museum, 430 Salem St., behind the Harnden Tavern (weather permitting). (Courtesy photo)

Selectmen offer support for locked out workers

this lockout's taking place," said Buonopane.

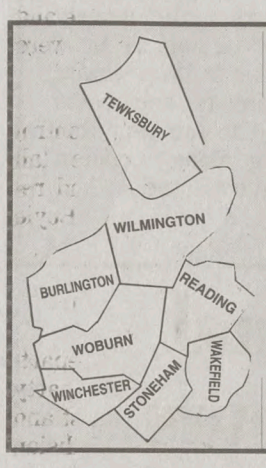

The union has sent a letter detailing these concerns to officials in 50 cities and towns in its service area, and asking that municipalities implement a moratorium on National Grid projects while its workers are locked out. According to Buonopane, Lowell, Medford, and Malden have committed to this moratorium.

Board Chairman Kevin Caira said that he had not yet seen the email.

"I would suggest that we take it under advisement at this point in time," he said.

Selectman Michael McCoy added that he "definitely supported" the intent of the moratorium.

"If there's anything that we can do... this is all new to me, but if we can help the folks under Chapter 164 section 25..... we, as elected officials, if we can take a look at it, help expedite it, help you folks, I'm sure we're all going to do that. Absolutely," said McCoy.

Burlington Police investigate after pursuit of stolen vehicle ends in crash

BURLINGTON — Chief Michael Kent reports that the Burlington Police are actively investigating following a vehicle pursuit ended in a crash last night.

On July 24, at approximately 8:15 p.m., police were dispatched to the Burlington Mall parking lot after a man called 911 to report that he'd interrupted a group of men who were attempting to steal his motorcycle. The caller also reported that, upon being spotted, the multiple black males who were allegedly involved fled the scene in a silver Honda Civic.

A detective located the Honda a short time later on Winn Street and began to follow the vehicle, which was determined to be stolen, and relayed its location to fellow officers as it traveled into Woburn. The suspects then began to flee from two marked Burlington Police cruisers in the area, resulting in a brief pursuit on Route 128 southbound into Lexington.

Out of concern for the safety of all involved, including other motorists and the suspects, the pursuit was called off. As an officer exited the highway and turned onto the northbound side to return to Burlington, the suspects' vehicle passed him at a high rate of speed heading northbound.

A short time later, officers observed that the vehicle had crashed near the Winn Street off-ramp and that none of the occupants were in the area. Due to the location of the crash, Burlington Police contacted Massachusetts State Police to join the investigation.

A subsequent search of the surrounding area for the three to five black male suspects was unsuccessful. During the search effort, State Police detained an individual who was later released without charges. State Police took custody of the vehicle involved in the pursuit and crash.

The investigation into this incident remains active and ongoing.

served. Proceeds from the sale of the book will be donated to the Friends of Wilmington Memorial Library.

Barbara Alevras is the volunteer facilitator for the writing groups program. A self-proclaimed "writing nerd," she has had an interest in writing her whole life. She studied it at the graduate level in college.

"Professor Tom Williams at UNH was my mentor," she said as she explains her background and passion. "But as I became busy, it went on the back burner."

Then in 2015, she spoke with Charlotte Wood, Assistant Library Director, about writing groups, and Wood encouraged her to start one. She did in March of that year.

The program evolved, and there are now three different groups. The original group is the Fiction Critique Group which focuses on basic writing techniques. The second group is Creative Writing Skills which focuses on the entire writing process.

"We don't read submissions in there," Alevras explained. "We cover the craft itself to include things like editing, publishing, and marketing."

The third group is a Poetry Circle. Alevras reported there are 20-22 participants now, but as many as 50 have been in the program.

"Some have gone on to publish," she said.

According to Alevras if you have a publisher, they take care of much of the work after the actual writing. But to self-publish, the authors take on that burden themselves. That is why so much of the learning process for the anthology was focused on the tasks beyond developing content.

"The group learned what it is like to work with a professional editor," Alevras explained. "And how to format a book, how much it costs, and how to price and market it."

The finished project represents a rewarding accomplishment for all of them.

Registration for the book launch is required. Additional information and registration is available at www.wilmlibrary.org or by phone at 978-658-2967.

Enough already with the drama

Can we just gear up for some Patriots Football?

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent
sports@yourtowncrier.com

As you might imagine, being a big sports fan, I have several favorite sports days of the year. Red Sox Opening Day of course, the first two days of March Madness, just before my bracket gets blown up, fantasy football draft day, just before my team gets blown up, Super Bowl Sunday, and virtually any NHL playoff game all qualify in that group of favorites.

Another favorite is fast approaching, and that is the day my Patriots season tickets arrive every year. Picture Jimmy Fallon in Fever Pitch when he gets his Red Sox season tickets. I don't exactly hug the UPS delivery driver while in my underwear, but I do get giddy with excitement, and smell the tickets as I pull them out of the envelope. It is truly a pathetic scene, and it has repeated itself for the past 26 years.

But this year I am more excited than ever for that day to arrive, as well as for the start of Patriots training camp, which opens on Thursday, mainly because it indicates that the Patriots are actually finally close to doing what they do best: winning football games.

Thank the football gods, the off season of discontent is finally over. For the first time in the Bill Belichick era, the Patriots were making more news off the field than on the field after their heartbreaking 41-33 loss to the Philadelphia Eagles in Super Bowl 52. But it is finally over. Football season is (almost) here.

No longer will we have to deal with hard hitting stories like "Tom Brady still hasn't committed to playing in 2018", even though of course from my recollection the man had never in his 18-year career actually announced a "commitment" to returning the following season. Nor has any player that I can ever remember. The way I have always understood it, a player either announces his retirement or we just assume he is coming back the following season. Of course, this did not stop talk radio idiots from ranting and raving for weeks about Brady's lack of "commitment."

And then of course when he skipped voluntary, repeat VOLUNTARY minicamps, you would have thought he had committed high treason based on the reaction of some fans and media alike. Of course, this served as proof that Brady and coach Bill Belichick hate each other, and the Patriots dynasty is doomed. Keep in mind, they weren't exactly best friends last season either and the team was one third own stop (or Malcolm Butler appearance) of winning another Super Bowl.

And then there was Gronk. Each day it seemed there was a new rumor as to where he would be traded, or, when he was going to announce his retirement. It didn't matter that there was zero truth to any of the rumors or that Patriots owner Robert Kraft came out and called the rumors "hogwash". I mean, after all why would we believe him? It was a lot easier to believe the rumors that the only reason the trade wasn't made was because Brady threatened to retire if Gronk was traded.

And of course, all of this drama could have been avoided if the Patriots had simply hung on to the greatest quarterback of all time. No, not five-time Super Bowl champion Tom Brady. I am obviously talking about the real G.O.A.T., Jimmy Garoppolo. What on earth would possess the Patriots to pass up the greatest quarterback ever to play the game in Garoppolo, just to hang on to a bum like Brady? I mean, in his five quarters of play for the Patriots, Garoppolo accomplished more than Brady could ever hope to accomplish in his entire career. What were they thinking?

OK, rant is almost over. Obviously, there is no denying there has been some self-inflicted drama for the Patriots this off season. And Brady and Belichick probably are not as close as they once were. It happens after working side-by-side for 18 years. And Garoppolo showed during the last five games of last season with the 49ers that he does indeed have the potential to be a very good NFL quarterback, whom the Patriots probably should have gotten more than a second round pick for.

No team, player or coach, are above criticism or questioning. But much of the local media's desire to see the Patriots great run to come to an end, and their propensity for criticizing, and in fact ridiculing, the greatest sports franchise of the past 20 years has been unbearable to watch this off season. It's like they want the Patriots to fail so badly, they feel like if they keep wishing for it, and keep saying it, it will someday come true.

And someday it will. Someday, Brady will indeed decline. And someday he may finally get so sick of Belichick, or the game of football itself, that he walks away. And someday, the Patriots will be like every other NFL team, hoping to find a way to get nine or ten wins and sneak into the playoffs, instead of coasting to 12 wins per year and hosting at least one playoff game.

But unfortunately for Patriots haters, that day is not here yet. Unfortunately for those folks, the games start soon, and they will have to watch the Patriots win game after game, week after week. They may not win the Super Bowl this year, but they will certainly win enough to turn the stomachs of those who are begging for the collapse of the empire.

Football season is here. The Patriots are back. Let the games begin!

Seven locals take part in NE Kids Triathlon Event

The New England Kids Triathlon took place Sunday July 15th at MIT for the 7th consecutive year. Over 1,000 children from across New England participated this year. The event runs two divisions: Junior for children ages 6-10 where they swim 100 yards, bike three miles, and run a half of a mile. Senior for ages 11-15 where they swim 200 yards, bike six miles, and run one mile.

Wilmington participants included:

Addyson Hunt age 11 (senior division); Preston Hunt age 9 (junior division); Cooper Hunt age 7 (junior division); Sofia Cataldi age 10 (junior division); Julie Cataldi age 7 (junior division); Ben Harris age 9 (junior division) and Lucas Harris age 7 (junior division).

Addyson Hunt won the 11 year old female age group. Several others were top 20 finishers. This was also the first triathlon for many of the Wilmington participants.

Tewksbury Northeast Baseball team hopes to avoid elimination

By DAN ZIMMERMAN
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com

TEWKSBURY -- Two weeks ago, the Northeast League Tewksbury baseball team won a game that was, at the time, described as their personal Superbowl. The Redmen finally defeated longtime nemesis North Reading and did so convincingly, 8-3.

But on Tuesday night, as the League playoffs got underway at Tewksbury Memorial High School, the Redmen were unable to duplicate that effort and were soundly defeated, 9-2, in the first round of their best of three series.

No. 7-seed Tewksbury, which is currently 3-8-1 overall, faces elimination when they reconvene at North Reading High School on Wednesday evening. If they can pull out an upset against the No. 2 Hornets, the series will extend to Thursday night. But before they can plan a return trip to their home field for a third and deciding game, the Redmen somehow need to find a way to manufacture more offense.

"We didn't come out tonight and play this North Reading team the way I know we can," said Coach Rob Wallace. "They flatly beat us. Sometimes, you come up against a good team playing good baseball and they just played better than we did."

After dropping five of six outings through the first half of the summer season, Tewksbury improved measurably down the stretch, beating North Reading, Lowell Catholic, and tying a top-notch Billerica club, 11-11. But there was also a pair of difficult defeats that were the result of their bats turning ice cold.

Wallace has said it before but this team can hit the ball. At times, however, they are clearly snakebit. For instance, in the sixth inning of their playoff opener and trailing the Hornets 9-0, Tewksbury loaded the bases and sent power hitter Alex Sousa to the plate with two outs. Sousa delivered, drilling a long ball to deep center that should have scored three. Instead, North Reading centerfielder Matthew Solecki made the play of his career, hauling in the long ball with a remarkable over-the-shoulder catch to end the inning and preserve the shutout.

"Alex Sousa has been hitting the ball great for us, especially over the second half," said Wallace. "And he really got a hold of that one. But what can you do? The kid made an awesome play. Bases loaded, two outs. That was just plain unlucky."

Tewksbury spotted North Reading a pair of runs in the first inning as Joe Frammartino reached on an error, advanced to third on a Ryan Connor double and scored on a sacrifice fly from Alex D'Ambrosio. Connor later crossed to double up the lead, 2-0.

The Redmen could do little against North Reading ace Cole Doke, who faced just two hitters over the minimum through the first three frames. James Kochakian picked up the first

Tewksbury's Olivia DeLonais competes in prestigious lacrosse tournament in Delaware

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent
sports@yourtowncrier.com

The future certainly appears bright for Central Catholic Girls Lacrosse star Olivia DeLonais. The rising junior and Tewksbury native still has two years remaining in her high school career which is already off to a tremendous start, having helped lead the Red Raiders to a pair of state tournament berths, including last season's outstanding 16-5 overall record and first round victory over Westford Academy.

Yes, the future is definitely bright, with a college career almost certain to follow her great high school career, but we are getting a little ahead of ourselves in talking about DeLonais' future, as at the moment, the present is looking pretty spectacular as well.

In addition to her exploits with Central Catholic, most recently DeLonais competed at the 2018 Maverik National Lacrosse Classic in Frederica, Delaware last week, and had a tremendous tournament, helping to lead Team New England to a first place finish in pool play, before finally losing in the semifinals of the tournament to eventual champion Metro, New York.

DeLonais had five goals and six assists in the six games of the tournament, including a dramatic game tying goal in the quarterfinals that helped propel her team into the semifinals. DeLonais has played in big games and big tournaments before, but this was her first time appearing at a national level, and she raised her game to meet the new challenge.

In the meantime, she was also able to create some life long memories with some of the best high school lacrosse players in the country.

"Overall, it was a very good experience" DeLonais said. "I made friends with people I will be playing with throughout my high school career and my college career as well. And our coach (Tom Hinsch) was great as well. He was so helpful to all of us. It was just a great experience all around."

The great experience for DeLonais and her team New England teammates began in group play where they won the four team Pool 'C' with a 3-1 record, dominating their opponents by a combined score of 33-19.

The teams played two games each day, last Tuesday and Wednesday, with New England beating Ohio 10-2 and Georgia 8-5 last Tuesday, before suffering their only loss to Wisconsin in their first game on Wednesday by a score of 10-7. New England bounced back in a big way in their second game of the day, however, routing Long Island by a score of 9-2 to capture the Pool C title.

"The funny thing about the Wisconsin loss was that they ended up finishing last, but they beat us. We just didn't play well in that game," DeLonais said. "But beating Long Island was very exciting. We actually were not expected to beat them, but we played an excellent game and were able to win that one."

After going 3-1 in pool play, New England moved on to the quarterfinals where they took on host Delaware, and found themselves on the short end of a 5-4 score as time wound under a minute left in the game. It appeared their tournament was about to come to an end, but DeLonais was not about to let that happen, finding some space and driving to the net before hauling in a pass from her teammate and bouncing a shot past the stunned Delaware goalie to tie the game at 5-5 with just 30 seconds left.

"It was really exciting," DeLonais said. "The team was very excited because we knew if we had lost, our tournament would have been over, so we were happy to be going to overtime."

Once in the overtime, New England wasted very little time in carrying their momentum forward, scoring the game winning goal off of the opening draw for a 6-5 win and a spot in the semifinals against Metro where they fell by a score of 4-2 against a talented opponent who would go on to win the championship the next day with an 8-4 win over Michigan.

Metro was a very aggressive team. They were very talented," DeLonais said. "As good as they were, I feel like we could have won if we had played better. We did not play as well as we could have in that game."

Overall, however, advancing to the semifinals of a national tournament is something to be very proud of. In reality, simply making a team of this caliber is quite the accomplishment, as over 100 players from all over New England tried out for the team, with only 18 selected, including DeLonais and two of her Central Catholic teammates, Meagan Kelly and Ella Trout.

While the team was selected in late February, they only had one practice together and that did not occur until they had arrived in Delaware last Monday. Still, DeLonais felt the players came together very quickly and played well as a team throughout the tournament.

"Most of the players want to do whatever they can to make the other players look good and we all played that way," DeLonais said. "In practice we worked on some plays and they worked well. Even though we didn't get to practice a lot, we all communicated very well."

DeLonais will be looking for even more success when she returns for her junior season with Central Catholic.

"I think we are going to have a very strong team this season," DeLonais said. "A lot of our talent will be coming back, so I feel like we can do really well."

Northeast Team hoping to avoid elimination against North Reading ace Cole Doke, who faced just two hitters over the minimum through the first three frames. James Kochakian picked up the first Tewksbury hit in the third inning, preceded by a Tyler Keough walk. But a double play ball erased both baserunners.

The Hornets, meanwhile, were having their way with starter Riley Frost. The ace hurler yielded four extra basehits in a fourth inning that saw the lead climb to 5-0. North Reading hung a crooked number again in the fifth, stretching the advantage to 9-0. All that remained for Tewksbury was to avoid an early exit via the mercy rule and snap the shutout.

The Redmen did just that as darkness encroached on the field. Jared Whitby led off the seventh with a basehit and advanced to third on a Kyle Almeida double off a tiring Doke. Whitby scored on Tyler Keough's ground ball out and Almeida soon followed on a passed ball.

The series was originally slated to open at North Reading but was rained out Monday, altering the home field advantage. But Tewksbury wasn't able to capitalize and now moves on to their adversary's turf with their backs against the wall.

"Tomorrow, we face elimination and we're going all in," said a determined Wallace. "Every ounce of energy we have, every resource we have at our disposal - we're coming in and using them. We're putting everything we have into tomorrow's game."
